CATHERING STATISTICS FOR CRUSHING BULLS AND BEARS.

VOLUME XIV

An Interesting Interview with Mr. W. F. Ford, o Bradstreet's, in which He Gives some Valuable Hints as to a Scheme for Crushing out the Speculators—How he Succeeds.

ATLANTA, Ga., February 19, 1882.-[Editorial Corndence. - I dined on last Thursday night with Mr. W. F. Ford at the St. James in New York.

Mr. Ford is the editor of Bradstreet's, and the author of the system of cotton reports now creating so much discussion. In his last capacity he is being the buyers represent the disorganized mob. talked about on two continents and written about in several languages. It will be interesting, thereore, to hear from his own lips the history of his those who have organized to make money out of new and collosal scheme.

To begin with Mr. Ford-differing in this from other fanatics-is fat. The chaffing of his spirit ces. In order to fleece them the speculators must has not eaten into his flesh, for a chubbier, rounder little person than he, it would be hard to find. Making figures, however, has bent his shoulders, and in talking he bends almost down to the table. making strange outlines with a pencil, giving you a scholar's stoop back of the face of a well-fed cher-ub. Before he became the editor of Bradstreet's he was a journalist of repute and enterprise, and entered his new field with the hope of developing it. But I will let him tell the rest of the story in his lish the correctness of our reports, even an organized own way.

"I saw long ago the need of statistical information in regard to the crops, especially of those crops with which there is speculation. As long as the speculators can keep the public in the dark as to the size of the crop he is dealing in he can wring it that they should be promptly informed as to what from the hands of the producer at a depressed price the supply will be. This once done they cannot and force the consumer to buy it at an extravagant one. By creating false impressions as to the supply he can bear it until the farmer is forced to sell and then bull it until the spinner is forced to buy. Accurate and early information as to the acreage planted, and the probable yield, will prevent either depressions or corners—will let the farmer and the spinner unders and each other—will put the crop the acreage of next year will be smaller than this, on its merit, and discoufage speculation."
"All right—granted! Now go ahead."

exchanges had done no better, and I felt that it needed individual enterprise to accomplish what corporate work could never do. For instance, where is the responsibility in the report of a cotton exchange? It is simply sent out as the report of the committee; if it fails, the blame can be lodged no put a great deal of money into our reports for this where. But when a single and responsible firm is-so you determined to get up the statistics?" "Yes. And I determined to introduce journalism into trade. The trouble with all our commercial papers is that they work in a book, room, and base their estimates on figures loosely gathered. I saw that the only way to do the work thoroughly was to organize your own reporting force, and get your own facts. I went to work, therefore, to report the cotion crop just as the Herald would report a great war. I selected over 4,000 reporters, stationed in almost every county in which cotton was grown. I He is fascinated with the subject with which he is arranged a series of questions for them and started the work. As soon as I discovered a defect in the intelligence, the farmers, or the conservatism of a man, I dropped him. After years of weeding out letter is as capable of judging as the man who I now have 1,200 picked men, in whom we have just writes it. Of one thing I am satisfied—the am s confidence that the Herald has in one of that from first to last, his effort to its trained correspondents. These men are on the guard—each one report only on his immediate locality—and all are interested solely in getting the truth. I do not see why we cannot get a fair statement. I be ieve we have got it."

"Excuse the question-but do Bradstreet's people

"Speculate! They are the biggest speculators today in the country. They never buy or sell a bale of cotton, or a future contract, but they have more at stake on the present crop than the biggest speculator in New York. Why? Because they have put their trade mark on information. They have a large and profitable business that depends absolutely upon their reputation for accuracy. If they lose this reputation, their business is gone. And yet they have deliberately put out an unusual estimate of the staple crop of this country, and stamped it with their trade mark. Therefore, they have m at stake in the matter than any other man can have. Thousands of men have been influenced by these reports, and up to date the market has shown its disbelief of our figures. Our estimates and our systems are being denounced, and we fully under-tand the responibility." "The stock is certainly an enormous one?" "Yes. You see last year it was generally understood that our system was hardly perfected, and our estimates ran in the general direction of opinion, consequently we were not much discussed. This year, however, we have spoken authoritative ly, against general opinion, before any one else, and have claimed that our system was perfect. If the returns should prove that we were far wrong I could only publish our vouchers to show that we had not acted in bad faith, but we would be badly hurt. If, however, the crop should bear us out the public will then believe what we know to be true-viz: that our system can be relied on and our reports will become standard." "What do you think the result will be?" "I believe more firmly than ever that it will be within the shadow of our estimate. From first to last we have found a current of unvarying figures. When the crop was about one-third gathered we had our estimates as to what it would be. The other day, after the crop had been gathered, we sent out for estimates of what was remaining on the plantations. We then took this per centage of cotton still on the plantations, added it to what had been received, and we found that the total was within a few thousand bales of the first estimate given us as to what the crop would be. These sets of figures, one taken from the crop before it was gathered, and the other after it was gathered, coinciding so nearly, have demonstrated in my mind the correctness of our total. In addition to this we have the receipts for the past two months fully backing up our estimate. They are falling off now at the rate of about 70,000 a week, and they are even below the total of estimated daily receipts that we prepared when we

A gentleman sitting with us said to Mr. Ford: "I think the weak point in your statement is in the estimated amount of cotton left on the plantations. You make it 391,000 bales this year, when at the same time last year it was 1,760,000. I think this difference is too large." "We have studied this thing fully," said Mr. Ford "and we see no reason to dispute the testimony of our correspondents. We have urged them to examine the situation carefully, and to make conservative reports, approximating the truth not get it ex-Notwithstanding this precaution, we have made a reduction from their reports to satisfy the present equation. That is the percentage of error that must exist in all human estimates that must be deducted from the total to which general opinion or interest runs. In other words, we can sub mit the details of our system to any set of experts and they would say that it was as near perfect as it.

could possibly be made."
"Why is it that the market has gone down steadily the face of your report?'

"We have nothing to do with the market, and really care nothing as to whether it goes up or down. The price of cotton has nothing to do with We simply wish to establish the fact that our estimates can be relied on as accurate Speculative rise or fall is a matter of indifference. Still there is this explanation to be made. New York and Liverpool -that is the speculating centers

This is exactly the state of things that we are trying to break down. If we can estabclique cannot force the market into caprices and violent fluctuations. After all the price is governed by supply and demand and the producers and spinners who stand back of the speculators are the final masters of the situation. It is only necessary be fooled into selling too cheap or buying too

"Will you issue any other report this season?" "We will skip February but will issue a report in March, based mainly on the acreage of the new crop, then, of course, we will revise our figures for the present crop. I am already satisfied that that less fertilizers will be sold, and that the pre-"All right—granted! Now go ahead."

We use the telegraph as freely as a daily newspaper does when it is needed and do not count the cost. "Do you watch the receipts with much interest?" "My interest in them can well be imagined. go to the stock exchange daily, sit down quietly and note the figures as they are transacted. I only know one man in the exchange, but I frequently hear some stranger cursing Bradstreet's and denoun eing our reports as false I simply grin and bea it, and take consolation in the fact thatour day will

Mr. Ford is certainly a most interesting talker. treating, and comprehends thoroughly the tremend ous stake for which he is playing. As to whether or not he will win, the dullest man who reads this report the crop accurately has been a fair one and an honest one. If he fails he will lose enough without losing the good opinion of the public. If e succeds he will have laid the basis of the most important system of commercial statistics ever given to any country and will have increased very materially the powers and responsibilities of journal-

I found the Gordons in big luck and high spirits Mr. Walter Gordon, in addition to his large purchases already noted, has just bought the famou Gideonville plantation from Governor Colquitt, paying $16,000 cash therefor. He will buy and build on Peachtree during the month make an investment of about $ 60 000 in Atlanta, the Metails of which I am not now at liberty to mention.

A cotton factory with a capital of $1,500,000 will e built near Athens this year. A business firm of this city with connections in Atlanta has taken $500,000 of the stock, and the mill will bear the name of the head of this firm. It will be the largest mill in the state. The stock is all taken. Two Atlantians are here with patents. Mr. Charles Howard has a patent park bench and Mr M. deGraffenreid a patent lamp wick. They will prob ably arrange to develop them while here.

Mr E. D. Weyburn, of the Wheeler & Wilson company, who was instrumental in staring a shirt factory in Atlanta a short time since, reports that Moore & Marsh have agreed to take the entire product, and he is now negotiating for new men for the extension of the business. He reports that a manufactory for fine ladies' underwear will be esablished in Atlanta at once. This and the shir factory will employ over 200 girls and women.

Palling his Whiskers Out.

CHICAGO, February 20.—Thomas Ward, a notorious confidence man, was arrested yesterday for swindling a countryman, and placed in jail. When he entered his cell he had a fine moustache and beard, but a few hours later, when an officer visifed him, the moustache had disappeared and the beard was consideracly thinner. It, was then learned that Ward had pulled his whiskers out by the roots for the purpose of preventing identification. As for the feused to desist, his arms were handcuffed behind his back.

made our last statement for office use, and that brings the crop within 5,100,000 bales. So that in addition to two sets of figures taken from different points of view, and in answer to different sets of questions, we have the actual receipts to back us up. It is my opinion that the decrease in receipts as maintained for the past three weeks will be continued or even increased to tne end of the season."

> his prayer is granted. The capitol is crowded daily. The senate is involved yet in the long discussion of tariff and pensions. The monotony of debate on figures and old theories was broken by Senator Vance yesterday in one of his humorous out-

> It is impossible for him to discuss anything without a touch of this predominating sense of fun. It possesses him and he does its bidding. When he came to Atlanta to christen the cotton exposition he held it with tighter rein than ever before. His exuberant spirits then found vent in a strain of beautiful rhetoric with its flowers as fresh and dewy as the blooms of May.

Vance put in some hard licks on the discriminating tariff. He strengthened the opinion that the reformers have gotten the best of the debate in the senate.

The antique theories and worn out sylloquisms of Morrill, constitute the strongest bulwark yet set up by the high tariff men. Frye's fiery nonsense helped the cause nothing. He is said to have made the speech for his constituents, but it is a reflection on their good sense to insinuate that they will find comfort in such trash.

One of the most practical talks in favor of reform in the tariff was that of Senator Coke, a man not given to speech-making, but one of the hardest workers in the body. Nobody can argue out the theory of protection, but Mr. Coke recognized that it is a waste of opportunity to strike -now for tree trade and adapted this argument to the reforms in a tariff of outrageous discriminations. His case was clearly put and his views represent that demand for a just and equitable revision, which seems to be coming from every section of the country.

Mr. Coke's successor will soon be elected,

Mr. Coke's successor will soon be elected, and he is going to have opposition from three or four prominent Texans.

Mr. Reagan is spoken of. Governor Roberts is actively a candidate. The friends of Mr. Culberson, of the house, would like to urge him, but he is disinclined to antagonize Mr. Coke. Culberson is a native Georgian, who went from LaGrange to Texas, and has done wenderfully well there. He is considered to the control of the con done wonderfully well there. He is considered the best criminal lawyer in the state and on the stump is remarkably effective.

He is, I believe, a first cousin of Mr. A. B. Culberson, of the Atlanta bar. While he selom speaks in the house he commands a trong influence there, and is solid with his constituency. GEORGIA MATTERS.

The latest report in reference to the fight on Clark is that Johnson has been so heartly opposed as a friend of Blaine that if Clark goes he will not succeed him. Madison Bell has loomed up. He and Colonel Farrow are warm friends. The syndicate formed to control federal patronage in Georgia cares very little who shall succeed Clark. The great roint is to get him out and all other contests. point is to get him out and all other contests sto federal offices are postponed to await the result in this case.

Clark and Wade seem to be allied so closely that a restitution of Clark to favor would firmly establish Wade, while Clark's fall would be the prelude to his own. Both sides in this spirited contest continue to make Georgia prominent in Washington, and there is no telling when we shall have peace. What is THE SYNDICATE.

formed to dispose of Georgia offices as will pest advance the interests of the coalition, consists of General Longstreet, James Atkins, A. N. Wilson, C. W. Arnold, H. P. Farrow and Walter Johnson.

These gentlemen claim to represent the liberal movement in Georgia. Mr. Speer and Dr. Felton are heartily co-operating. It is reported on good authority that Dr. Felton has written to the president, asking the removal of Clark, and that before he made his Augusta speech he had some assurance that his advice on this question would be heeded. Some of the republicans in the seventh district, hear-ing of the doctor's activity in this affair, have written the president that he does not speak their sentiments and that they want Clark re-

Mr. Speer is frequently consulted by mem-bers of the syndicate. He is counted on for strong service in the liberal movement, as it is unanimously called. Some of the most con fident friends of the syndicate say it has the entire control of patronage in the state, and will virtually make up the slate. Clark's friends ask delay, but their opponents feel that they have the advantage and are pressing

John I. Collins, collector at Brunswick, is thought to hold on by a slight tenure. There are other prospective changes, but the first thing to be decided is whether or not Clark shall be removed. Every development in the scramble over these offices shows more clearly the determi-nation of the administration to help the coa-lition and even to sacrifice republicans who do not wheel into line. MR. BROWN'S VOTE.

Senator Brown's recent vote on the proposition to elect a chief reading clerk of the senate has brought a good crop of paragraphs from the newspapers of both parties and the independent press.

The day the vote was cast I wired The Constitution the senator's reasons for voting as he did.

The views then expressed he reiterates. He says:

"There is now a truce between the two parties in the senate. The republicans have con-trol of the committees. We have the offices. "On a strict vote they would have a major-y. As at present arranged the division "On a strict vote they would have a majority. As at present arranged the division seems fair to both parties. I should like very much to see Mr. Neil Brown get the position he deserves, but as Tennessee already has about twice as much patronage as Georgia, I do not feel called upon to risk what we now have and what the other democrats now have, simply to give a place to Mr. Brown.

"If this truce is once broken and the question of who shall be the officers of the senate raised, the republicans would have it in their raised, the republicans would have it in their power to turn out every democrat who now holds an office in the senate. They do not seem disposed to disturb this question, and I do not think it would be good policy for the democrate to do it?"

Harris's resolution on the election of a reading clerk providing that their caucus nomines should be chosen instead of Mr. Brown. This does not seem probable and unless the resolution is passed by some of the democratic leaders the end of the matter is reached.

As this suggests Senator Harris, it is appropriate to say that the chances of his re-election are not very bright.

Tennessee will fall into the close clutches of the low tax men and for the senator they have

SENATOR HARRIS.

He has taken a high place in the senate and is among the acknowledged democratic leaders. By nature impulsive, there are times when he appears a little dogmatic and dictatorial, but he is counted on as a useful power in every hard contest. in every hard contest.

THE MORMON QUESTION

was treated in the senate in a way poorly cal-culated to eradicate the evil. The bill as reculated to eradicate the evil. The bill as reported by the committee was more like a ficree attack on polygamy than a practical treatment of it as an existing evil. And after all, it left the hope of its execution in the hands of a tribunal too much like the returning boards of 1876 to be worthy of trust. Senator Vest was severe in his dequaciation. Senator Vest was severe in his denunciation of the spirit of the measure. Edmunds in terrupted him several times with cold and in tricate legal queries but found every time that the Missouri senator was not speaking from impulse alone. He gave Edmunds as good as he sent and seemed to be quite as familiar with the decisions of the supreme court as the astute lawyer who is called court as the astute lawyer who is called "the attorney of the republican party". Senator Brown strongly opposed the bill in its original shape. He said the American people have had enough of returning boards, and Utah would find itself in the absolute control of five men if the bill passed. It was provided that all the members of this board should not be of the same relitical pasts. For should not be of the same political party, but this meant nothing more than that four of them should be republican and one democratic. He urged an amendment declaring that only three should be of the same political party. The senate had shown a disposition to reject all amendments, but this went through on a party vote of 26 to 24. David Davis voted with the democrats, and Mahone, as usual, was down in Richmond tinkering with the legislature. with the legislature.

Another amendment by Senator Brown restricting the powers of the board was adopted. These were the only two amendments made to the bill: The Mormon question is not an easy one. No remedy will work in a day the cure of a moral taint so deeply affecting the people of that creed.

Of the bill passed by the senate opinions are various and distrust general.

THE HOUSE

has gotten over the bulk of the apportionment bill by fixing the number at 325. This large figure caught the democrats of Texas and South Carolina, as well as some from New York, as it helped each of these states. York, as it helped each of these states.

The increase to 325 seemed unjust to the bulk of the democratic side, and the solid Georgia delegation voted against it except Mr. Stephens, who was absent, and Mr. speer, who increased his familiarity with the repub lican way of thinking.

One of the clearest and best speeches made on the bill was that of Mr. Clements, of the seventh, who varied the rule of presenting an arid array of tables and long theories from manuscript, and in a brief, well knit argument, showed up the injustice of the commit It was his first speech in the house. It was delivered with a dignity which commanded most respectful attention and indicated a clear head which will be often needed in the clear head which will be often needed in the deliberations of this noisy body.

His remarks in reply to Mr. Prescott, of New York, were, I think, especially happy, as the following extract will show:

The democrats made a good point by trying to offer an amendment to restrict gerrymanderings in arranging for the new apportionment, but the republicans rallied to the rescue of one of their pet methods and saved it.

While the bill does not give the south a just showing for her phenomenal increase of the past ten years, it is about as good as could have been approximated from a republicant house.

Terrible Tragedy in Texas.

St. Louis, February 20.—A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday near Centreville, Texas, in which two negroes named Hall were killed and their wives mortally wounded. It appears that the negroes, who were riding along the road in a wagon had some trouble with the child of a white man named Lyle. The child ran home, told its father about the affair, and the latter, to king a shot gun, concealed himself by the roadside. Shortly after the negroes drove by, and Lyle fired upon them from his ambush, almost blowing the heads off the men, and fatally wounding the women. The murderer fled, but officers started in pursuit.

WASHINGTON, February 20. - [Special.]-Colonel Hammond's bill to divide Georgia into two United States judicial districts passed the house to-day. Messrs. Kasson, Holman and other prominent members opposed it but Mr. Hammond had carried it through the ommittee, and so clearly stated the reasons for it in the house, that it went through. It will leave Judge Erskine in the northern part of the state and organize a new court for southern Georgia. James Atkins is supposed to aspire for the judgeship, and there will be others willing to take it.

Mr. Blount pointedly opposed the bill to increase the pay in the life-saving service as an unnecessary outlay of money, but the bill

Mr. Speer spoke in favor of the bill to refund the duty paid on the English edition of the revised testament, to which there was no opposition.

Nothing new has developed as to the Georgia offices. Clark's place is still firmly demanded by the coalition, and the secretary of the treasuy fully accords. Raum is faithful, but not hopeful. Wade's chances are better as his sympathy with the new movement has been fully established.

He charged that prejudice existed in the chamber against this illustrious leader, because of what he had done for his country. There was no reason for it upon any other assumption. He said he disliked to be charged with preju-dice against Grant. He regarded the measure as one for buncombe. He did not think Grant wanted retirement, hor that he needed any such provision in his behalf nor that it would be any additional honor to him. The retired list, in his opinion, had been reserved for disabled officers. He thought General Grant's friends were humiliating him by putting him in the atti-tude of a beggar. He would vote $100,000 or $500,000 if necessary to save Grant from want, but for the reasons stated he could not favor the bill.

Mr. Logan replied by asking Mr. Butler if he had ever known of a case in which an offi-cer had been placed on the retired list because of necessitous circumstances.

Mr. Butler instanced the case of General

Shields who, he said, at the time of his application, had been compelled even to pawn his sword.

Mr. Logan replied that the statement published that shields had pawned his sword was wrong; that Shields himself had denied the story. The gentleman seemed to be afraid that Grant might be humiliated, but the friends of that gentleman, he thought, ought to be the judges on that point. As one such, he would say that as a recognition of the ser-vices of the distinguished beneficiary, his retirement would be considered by him as an

THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

The house committee on improvements of The house committee on improvements of the Mississippi river to-day appointed a sub-committee, consisting of Mr. Thomas, of Illinois; Mr. Gunter, of Arkansas; Mr. King, of Louisiana; Mr. Moore, of Tennessee, and Mr. Carpenter, of Iowa, to draft a bill embodying the recommendations of the Mississippi river commission, as sub-mitted to congress by the secretary of war. The committee also extended an invitation to Captain Eads and Representatives Gibson and Robertson, of Louisiana, to address them on Friday night.

Representative Robertson, of Louisiana to-day introduced a bill providing for the establishment of life-saving stations and life-boat stations on the Mississippi river between St. Paul and Port Eads, and appropriating $50,000 to carry the act into effect.

Mr. Robertson also introduced a bill consti-tuting the city of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, a port of delivery.

A bill was introduced by Representative

Kelley in regard to the prize money appropriated—$966,120, or so much thereof as may be found to be due the officers, seamen and marines of Admiral Farragut's fleet—for captures made in the Mississippi river at New Orleans, April 25, 1862.

RELIEF FOR THE DESTITUTE. Representative Dunn, of Arkansas, intro-duced a resolution in the house to-day au-therizing the secretary of war to grant immethe place of doorkeeper of the democratic house, his candidacy for the place having immediately preceded the unanimous passage by the house of the bill placing him on the retired list, in view of which Mr. Edmunds construed the measure as an attempt to compensate a beneficiary from the treasury because of his defeat in the house. This speech, Mr. Vest said, was what the lawyers called the statement of the case, and he would now make that statement applicable to the present case, upon the assumption that the retirement of Grant was a measure of compensation for his defeat at Chicago.

The discussion was continued, notwith standing the expiration of the morning hour.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY. THE HAWAHAN TREATY.

The hearing before the house committee on foreign affairs on the proposed abrogation of the Hawaiian treaty under which sugar grown in the Sandwich Islands is now admitted into the ports of this country free of duty, was continued. Mr. Allen, the Hawaiian minister, reviewed the history of affairs which had led to the treaty, and recited the views of Messrs.

Marcy Seward. Sumper, General Grant and to the treaty, and recited the views of Messrs.
Marcy, Seward, Sumner, General Grant and others as to the importance to the government of the United States that the Hawaiian Islands should not fall under the control of any foreign power. He contradicted the assertions made on the other side that the labor engaged on sugar culture could be called in any sense, slave labor, but showed that the wages taid salar clutter could be called in any sense slave labor, but showed that the wages paid are very high, and that the interests and welfare of the laborers are thoroughly protected by the Hawaiian government. He also showed that the allegations as to smuggling sugar into this country under the name of Sandwich Island sugar was entirely without fundawich Island sugar was entirely without funda-tion, and in proof of that he read from a letter from Mr. Comley, United States minister at Honalula.

HAWKINSVILLE, February 18.—[Special.]—
A number of our business men and citizens met at the court house in this place on Thursday last to discuss the proposed extension of the Florida Southern railway through our section. Remarks were made by several who have studied thoroughly the advantages of the extension, showing that besides the advantages to our city, it would be expedient and profitable to the incorporators to run the railroad through Hawkinsville, being in a direct line from Tampa Bay to Macon, the respective southern and northern termini, and thereby penetrating the great timber, as well as cotton region through which it is proposed to extend the road. A committee was appointed to correspond with the to extend the road. What the Papers Say A ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

Columbus Enquirer About a year ago a party of gentlemen living near Green Hill, Stewart county, took a notion that they would move out west and grow up with the country. They went to Texas and had not been there but a short time before they formed the acquaintance of a "wire-walker," whose name was Bond. The acquaintance ripened into friendship, and Bond was so much pleased with his poor sequaintance ripened into friendship, and Bond was so much pleased with his newfound friends that he wanted them to give him a Georgia sweetheart. This was an easy matter for them to do, and they recommended a young lady in the Green Hill neighborhood. Now comes the romantic part of the story. One evening after Miss Annie Nicholson had finished milking the cows and had rinsed out the strainer rag and hung it by the door facing to dry, she got a letter. This was not an unusual occurrence, but the letter was not an unusual occurrence, but the letter was a most unexpected one. It was from her lexas friends informing her that they had ven her away and that her lover by proxy anted to know if he could write to her. She suldn't refuse such a modest request and answered him yes. Bond wrote to her immediately on receiving the permission. He liked her chirography and the smack of her letter. He thought he would like her better, and asked an exchange of pictures. Again she could not refuse. He was in a heaven of bliss at the sight of his fair Venus and at once made a proposal of marriage. She had made a precedent and it would not do to violate it, and again she could not refuse. February 16 was set for the time of culminating their happiness by the holy bonds of wedlock. Those who knew of the love affair said it was all a joke, but Bond meant business. Last Friday evening one week ago a stranger called at the house where Miss Nicholson resided. It was her Adonis. He saw the goddess of his heart's idolatry, he took in the situation and was pleased—aye fascinated, charmed. He left her with a promise to call at the appointed time when the marriage nuptials would be celebrated. Last Thursday evening he was in on time and the happy marriage was consummated. Their many friends echo congratulations and wish them a long and happy life, which emanates from nurs and holy wedded love. They will them a long and happy life, which emanates from pure and holy wedded love. They will spend a few days with their friends and will then leave for their Texas home.

A HORROR AT HOOD.

Columbus Enquirer. Last night the facts of a most terrible tragdy, enacted at Hood, the terminus of the Co lumbus and Rome railroad, reached this city. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Robert Garner was drinking, but his friends anticipated no mis chief at his hands. About 7:30 o clock he was at the store of Mr. Zack. Hardy, and a negro woman named Vick Simpson and a negro man were also in the store. Mr. Garner had a man were also in the store. Mr. Garner had a dispute with the woman about opening a door, when he picked up a shot-gun and threatened to shoot the woman and the man. It is said that the negro man told him the gun was not loaded and that Garner thought it was not. Our informant did not know whether he was pointing it toward her on purpose or not, but the gun was discharged, and the whole load took effect in the woman's head and face. Her brains were scattered over the floor and she died almost instantly. It was said to be a most ghastly sight, and all from a careless use of firearms in the hands of a drunken man. The gentlein the hands of a drunken man. The gentle-man who relates the circumstance of the kill-ing could not tell how the gun was discharged. ing could not tell how the gun was discharged more than it was sa d to be purely accidental It is stated that the more than it was as d to be purely accidental. It is stated that the young man was very much depressed, and even while drunk regretted as deeply as possible that such a terrible tragedy should come from his hands. It is enough to make him feel regrets. He has taken the life of a human being without provocation and all by a careless act. That he would not have committed the deal interticular for any anyunt that less act. That he would not have committed the deed intentionally for any amount that could be named may all be very true, but this does not bring the dead to life, nor does it atone for his carelessness. Had he done the shooting purposely, the law would not excuse him on the ground of being drunk. Humanity is more charitable than the law is merciful and this will make the public look at the ful, and this will make the public look at the matter more as a strong temperance lecture. No doubt Mr. Garner feels sad, and should be a warning not only to him but to all others, never to again drink the vile stuff that robs him of his reason.

SHREWD DETECTIVE WORK.

Savannah Recorder On the 16th of December last a woman about twenty-two years of age, with languish-ing bluc eyes, auburn hair, florid complexion, full lips, height about five feet two inches and weighing about one hundred pounds, hailing originally from Palo Pinto, Texas, but more recently from Anderson county. S. C., was engaged as a seamstress in the family of the Hon. J. W. English, Mayor of Atlanta. She Hon. J. W. English, Mayor of Atlanta. She gave presumably good satisfaction, as she remained with the honorable gentleman for about two months. On Friday, the 10th inst., she disappeared suddenly from Atlanta, and the fact was afterwards ascertained that with her also disappeared the handsome gold watch and chain belonging to the wife of the chief executive of Atlanta. Circumstances pointed and chain belonging to the wife of the chief executive of Atlanta. Circumstances pointed to the fact that the fair fugitive left for Savannah, and in order to apprehend her if possible, Mayor English sent a letter to General R. H. Anderson, chief of police of this city. The case was entrusted to Sergeant Killhourhy to work up. That official indefatigably went to work, and by some shrewd detective shilling transportations. went to work, and by some shrewd detective ability traced the fair thief and ascertained that she was in Margaret Connolly's bagnio on South Broad street. He arrested her Fri-day evening and when searched the stolen articles were discovered on her person. Mayor English was communicated with and the arrest made known to him yesterday. The case was worked up with care and ability by Sergeant Killhourhy during the short timehe was off duty. He deserves credit and recognition for his services. What disposition will be made of the woman we do not know. We suppress her name for prudential reasons.

When the morning train from Jacksonville reached Cochran on Friday night, Mr. Alfred Schoff, treasurer of the Boston and Hingham Schott, treasurer of the Boston and Hingham steamboat company, had occasion to leave his berth in the Pullman car for a short while. He returned after the train started, and found that he had been robbed. His vest, containing his gold watch and a roll of bills of about sixty dollars were not to be found, though he had only been absent a few minutes. He informed the conductor of the sleaver and both selled in few absent a few minutes. He informed the conductor of the sleeper, and both called in Conductor Jeter. The doors of the car were t en locked and no one allowed to leave. When the train arrived in Macon Captain Sharpe, of the road, was called up and the news imparted to him. He hunted up Lieutenant Wiley, of the police force, and the party then went into the car. There were three ladies on board and about a dozen men as passengers. The gentlemen consented to be searched, but nothing was four d upon them. As Mr. Schoff was compelled to go on, there was nothing left for him to do but to leave with Lieutenant Wiley a description of the articles stolen and await developments. He articles stolen and await developments. will be at Marietta for ten days. The vest was of English worsted, olive green color, made with white thread. In the pocket was an open face gold watch, with the letters coman open face gold watch, with the letters com-posing the name of "Alfred Schoff" on the face, instead of the Roman numerals. The chain was a gold cable, with a gold-mounted rubber pencil and a moss agate charm. In another pocket was the roll of bills.

As to who committed the robbery, Lieutenant Wily has his theory, which he will work out in due time. It is quite certain that none of the passengers had anything to do with it. ANOTHER BOLD ROBBERY.

Reading were concerned.

As soon as Mr. Gowen learned of the passage of the bill in Trenton and of its nature he came to this city for the purpose of consulting with Mr. Vanderbilt, who assisted him what surprises both Wall street and railroad people is that after securing the presidency of Reading through Mr. Vanderbilt's assistance Mr. Gowen should unite with the Baltimore and Ohio, against which Mr. Vanderbilt has an especial grievance, to secure for that road an especial grievance, to secure for that road an independent outlet to New York. Mr. Vanderbilt has said that, as the Baltimore and Ohio was not a New York road, it had no business to feed this port. The present management now has the advantage, but the Garrett-Gowen party has not given up the fight, and there is talk of testing the constitutionality of the bill.

THE CONSTITUTION

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 21, 1882.

GENERAL GARTRELL has formulated. SKOBELOFF promises to become a bone

THE brave admiral who is now acting as governor of Virginia rests well after his enturesome cruise.

GENERAL LOGAN had a stalwart chill yester day, with which he hopes to shake up th nnolent patriotism of Illinois.

THE apportionment bill was presented in the senate yesterday, with a unanimous comittee recommendation for its passage.

ONE of the most terrible results of the Hav erhill holocaust is the suspicion that many more lives were lost than there is any recon THE grand jury of the district of Columbia has returned true bills against twelve of the star route thieves, including Brady and Dorsey. It now remains for twelve petit juries to cover themselves with glory. A TEXAN beats Mr. Disston's offer by proising one hundred acres to every family of Jewish exiles that may look toward the lone star state. There is plenty land in Georgia, but it does not seem to be on the market. THE desolation in the river valleys of Ar kansas and Louisiana is represented as appall ing. Over four millions of acres are flooded. and the inhabitants have been driven to the highlands, where they have no means of sus-

. THE numerous boiler accidents throughou the country, notwithstanding the stupidity of the coroners' juries, can be easily ex plained. As long as botchy apprentices are employed, at starvation wages, as engineer these explosions will continue. And still there will be nobody to blame.

MAHONEISM IN TENNESSEE

Tennessee's debt of twenty-seven million more or less, is thrown back by the recent decision of its highest court to its former muddied condition. It is now the supreme issue, and it need not surprise any one if the Vi ginia coalition is repeated in our sister state Such coalitions can in fact succeed only in the states that have debts that can be repu diated. Mahone's success was simply th success that is almost sure to wait upon an alliance of the republican party and the repudiationists. These two elements have an affinity for other, although the republican party claims to embody nearly all the honesty and patriotism of the country. But pure as it is on paper, it is ready to act in obedience to the commands of its official head and to go to any extent in the repudiation of publi Undoubtedly the Virginia programme will be tried in Tennessee, and probably in Ar kansas, which has an unsettled state debt; and if it succeeds in either state the disgrace that attends it should be wholly charged up against the national republican party. For without the aid of the government patronage and the influence of the administration such success than an attempt to fly to the moon. The stalwart chiefs will not hesitate, however. Little do they care about the public credit of states. They want, first of all, control of southern delegations to the next republican national convention, and beyond that a handful or so of southern electoral votes. If thes can be secured at the expense of public bonor, they will make the bargain without : regret or a thought about ultimate conse

THE NEXT ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

The apportionment bill as it stands is a re publican measure, and as South Carolina is also in favor of the proposed plan, it is rea sonable to assume that the bill will become a law without material amendment. Instead then of 185 electoral votes being necessary to elect a president, the successful candidate must have at least 201. In the old electoral college there were 369 votes; in the new there will be 401, or 404 if Dakota becomes a state. In the last named event a majority would be 203. It is reasonably certain that Dakota will soon become a state, and that therefore the next president must secure 203 electoral votes

Under the existing apportionment the six teen southern states cast 138 electoral votes: under the proposed law they will cast 153. Let us assume that the south will be solid in 1881 democratically solid. Just 50 additional votes are needed. New York will cast 30 and Indiana 15-total 51, or a relative loss o two votes. In other words, under the present law. New York, Indiana and the south would cast 188 votes when 185 are necessary; under the new law they will cast 204 when 203 are essential to success. If Indiana should over to the enemy, Nevada's votes and New Jersey's nine would not suffice. Nevada, New Jersey and Connecticut would replace Indiana, and give us a margin of four votes, but Connecticut is no longer reliably democratic. We could spare Connecticut if we could carry California, and Indiana could be given up in case ado, Nevada and New Jersey went democratic. The whole truth is, the situation will not be greatly changed by the new law; for New York will retain all her power as the sident-making state, and Indiana will rein as pivotal as before. A nominee that could carry Ohio would, however, unsettle all

Under the new bill the southern gains foot up fifteen, namely: Arkansas, 1; Georgia, 1; Kentucky, 1; Mississippi, 1; Missouri, 1;

North Carolina, 1; South Carolina, 2; Texas, Virginia, 1; and West Virginia, 1. No southern state loses a member. The net northern gains are seventeen. The states that suffer losses are Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, one each.

SLAVERY AND THE WAR.

The readers of THE CONSTITUTION will bear in mind that the esteemed Charleston News and Courier placed itself with the no less esteemed Mobile Register in asserting that slavery was not the cause of the war, but that the cause for which the south fought still survives-that is to say, the esteemed News and Courier embodied the Register's remarks in its editorial columns and gave them the conspicuous indorsement of leaded minion. The osition of the Register was and still is, so far as we are enabled to understand its somewhat confusing statements, that the south fought or local self-government, and that local self overnment has been restored by the attitude f the democratic party after the war. It eems, however, that the esteemed News and Courier did not copy the views of the Register and comment favorably thereupon for the purpose of indorsing them. On the contrary, far from it. Our contemporary says:

THE CONSTITUTION begs the whole question. Sla rery was, of course, a contributing cause of the sar. It is as safe to assert that "if there had been to slavery there would have been no war" as it is asseverate that if there had been no 'United States here would have been no secession. The cause of local self-government" for which the southern ates fought was the right of the states to local in-spendence, under a strict construction of the local self-government at the same states fought was the right of the same states fought was the right of the south robber houstitution, and the defeat of the south robber he states of the only peaceful means of enforcin hat right, that is, by secession. Local self-government, in the sense in which the south fought the south fought the south of the south of the south of the south sense in which the south fought the south of the sou the states of the only peacetain and a self-govern ment, in the sense in which the south fought for it, does not exist. Year by year the federal government encroaches more and more upon the political domain of the states, and, unless the states which were not "in reberlion" awaken to the danger, the march to centralization and despotism will be rapid and easy it was not for slavery, as such, that the south fought. There were tens of thousands of men under the confederate colors who would have scorned to draw the sword for the preservation of the slave system. We do not know whether the editor of The Constitution was one of the number, but the writer of this certainly was. Secession was the last peaceful means of ensuring local self-government. It no longer exists. When the liberties of the states are menaced hereafter, as they will be, resort must be had to the ballot-box for safety, and, failing that, to revolution. This, we think, is clear enough. Far from the News and Courier suggesting that any confederate soldier fought unnecessarily or unworthly, it is THE CONSTITUTION which, by implication, insult the whole southern people. An insult and reproach it is to suggest that they were willing to dissolve the union, and sacrifice their own blood and the blood of their children, for no other or higher reason than to save their negroes and enhance the value of the slaves by establishing a "slaveholding confederary." THE CONSTITUTION has no time proved its position in the endeavor to prove that it contemporaries were in a muddle.

The CONSTITUTION has no position to im

THE CONSTITUTION has no position to in prove, for the statement that if there had been no slavery there would have been no war, is proposition so self-evident that any attempt to evade or deny leads to confusion. The News and Courier says it is as safe to say this as it is to assert that if there had been no United States there would have been no seces sion. One is not more self-evident than the other. If our esteemed contemporary proposes to discuss the causes of the war it should proceed in an orderly way. Secession may e regarded either as a remedy for a griev ince or as the result of a desire to resist an attack upon local self-government. But it our contemporary proposes to go into the sub ect, it should deal with particulars. It state that the cause "for which the southern states fought was the right of the states to local independence, under a strict construction of the constitution." This is altogether diferent from the statement of the esteemed Mobile Register, which declares that the way was fought against the pretensions of the re publican party, and for local self-government which still survives, having been rescued at the ballot-box since the war. But why was it thought necessary for the southern states to have what the News and Courier calls 'local independence?"

It will be observed that while our esteem Charleston and Mobile contemporaries had locked arms in this business a few weeks ago, now they are as wide apart as the poles. Our Charleston contemporary brayely shakes loose from the muddle, leaving the Mobile pap where it stood "when the difficulty arose. There is one question we should be glad to see our Charleston contemporary answer. a coalition would have no better chance of Does it conscienciously believe that if the south had the choice to-day of peaceful separation from the union it would take advantage of the opportunity? In other words would there be a majority at the ballot-box in favor of peaceable secession? If yes, why If no, why not?

> THE esteemed Augusta Chronicle wants to begin a crusade against the lease system from a demo cratic standpoint. The mistake here is in suppos ing that party capital can be made out of th tem one way or the other. The same mistake has been made by the coalition. It is a little curious that those who oppose the lease system are dumb when they are asked what disposition is to be made the convicts when the present system is abolished.

> Ir gore was what the cotton bears were after, they ought to be satisfied. And yet, after sucking their paws all the winter, they were very ravenous.

> MR. ABRAHAM HEWITT, of New York, who he somehow become mysteriously mixed up with the demogratic party, has taken advantage of his post tion in congress to attack the standard silver dolle. Keep Out of Politics.

Mayor Grace, of New York. Mayor Grace, of New York.

My feeling is that too many of our young men go into polities. This is brought about by their lack of facilities to get otherwise engaged, and by the fact that they are natural agitators. Now, in my opinion, there is no more demoralizing influence than political place. The natural tendency of public office is to uneducate a business man, rather than to give him good business qualities. Let our young men take an interest in the good government of the city, and on election day go to the boils and vote, but let them avoid office-seeking, avoid political places, and strike out boldly for themselves in more manly careers.

The necessary outcome of an absolute intellectual equality of the sexes would be the extinction of the human race. For, if all the tood were converted into thought in both men and women, no food whatever could be appropriated to the reproduction of the species. But, as an actual fact, women do not consume so much food as men; nor can they do so while their average size remains so much smaller. Moreover, of this smaller amount of food consumed by women some must always be spared for the continuance of the race; so that the sum total of food converted into thought by women can never equal the sum total of food converted into thought by men. It follows, therefore, that men will always think more than women.

How Papa's Consent Was Given.

The difficulty of proposing to the young lady is not always the most serious one the suitor has to encounter. Popping the question to one's prospective mother-in-law, or "asking papa," is frequently the more arduous undertaking of the two. When Professor Aytoun was wooing Miss Wilsou, daughter of Professor Wilson, the famous "Christopher North," he obtained the lady's consent conditionally on that of her father's being secured. This Aytoun was much too shy to ask, and he prevailed upon the young lady herself to conduct the necessary negotiations. "We must deal tenderly with his feelings," said glorious old Christopher "I'll write my reply on a slip of paper, and pin it to the back of your frock." "Papa's answer is on the back of my dress," said Miss Jane, as she entered the drawing-room. Turning her round, the delighted professor read these words: "With the author's compliments."

The Fraternity Explained.

We are asked by a correspondent to explain why here is more fraternity of feeling between the resbyterians and the Catholics of Ireland than beween the Episcopalians and the Catholics, when he creeds of the former differ so widely, and the oxmas and ceremonials of the latter are so nearly blood—while the Saxons are a Teutonic race, diffeing widely in mental peculiarities from both the Celts and Scots. Another reason is the Presby terians of Ireland suffered almost as much from religious and political persecution at the hands of the "bloody Sassanach" for several generations, a did the Irish Catholics, and men are drawn to gether by common misfortunes and persecutions. And lastly, while the Irish Catholics suffred fearfully at the hand of the Saxons for several centuries, they and their fellow sufferers, the Presby terians, have been nearly aiways at peace with each other.

The Natural bridge property has been again sold, The Natural bridge (va.) Dispaten.

The Natural bridge property has been again sold, this time by the Alleghany coal and from company, to Mr. H. C. Parsons, for $55,000 cash. This property has had an eventful history. The first owner of record was Thomas Jefferson, and he made frequent visits to the place, prizing it highly—in one of his letters, recently discovered, placing its value at $30,000, and saying that people would cross the seas to visit it. It has be used repeatedly at from $15,000 to $40,000. at which price it was reported at one time sold to John Garrett, when the Valley railroad was located near it. About a year ago it was sold by the Harman estate to the present purchaser for about $15,000, and by him immediately sold to the Alleghany coal and from company for $20,000. The recent purchase carries the improvements that were put upon it the last season. The object of the purchaser is to organize a new company to be called the Natural Bridge Forest company, to insure more extensive improvements. The property contains nearly 1,200 acres, a large part of which is original forest. It lies in the great circle of hills lifted 600 feet above the valley, and 1,600 feet above the sea. From the bighest point there is a view of the Blue Ridge for 70 miles, and the place will form a shaded and breezy summer resort, convenient to Lynchburg and stebroud blanyillo and New York. Houses Bullt of Cotton. Colonies and India.

Golonies and India.

Of all substances apparently the least likely to be used in the construction of a fireproof building, cotton would, perhaps, take the first rank and paper the second; and yet both these materials are actually being employed for the purpose indicated, and their use will probably extend. Compressed paper pulp is successfully used in the manufacture of doors, wall panelings and for other similar purposes, with the result that all risk of warping and cracking is obviated, while increased lightness is attained and the fear of dry-rot is forever banished. Papier-mache, after having served a useful purpose is an unobstructive manner for years as a material for small travs, paper knives and other such light articles, has now suddenly assumed a still more important position in the industrial world. A still more sudden and striking advance has been made in the employment of cotton as a building material. A preparation called celluloid, in which cotton is a leading ingredient, has been used hiely as a substitute for ivory in the manufacture of such articles as billiard balls and paper cutters, and now a Canadian manufacturer has invented a process by which compressed cotton may be used, not merely for doors and wikdow frames, but for the whole facade of large buildings. The enormous and increasing demand for paper for its normal uses as a printing and writing material prevents the extended use of papier-mache as a building material, for which it is so well suited in so many ways; but the preduction of cotton is practically unlie field, and there seems to be a large field available for its use in its new capacity as a substitute for brick—or at least plaster—and wood. Treated with certain chemicals and compressed it can be made perfectly fire-proof and as hard as stone, absolutely air and damp proof; and a material is thus produced adminably adapted for the lading—thermal or external—of buildings of which the shell may or may not be constructed of other material, while it easily lends itself to decorat

New York, February 20.—The marriage of Albert Egloff with Margaret Egloff was annulled by Justice Gilbert, of the King's county supreme court, on the ground that the former husband of Margaret was alive when she married Egloff, July 3, 1873. according to the evidence she married William Graff on september 12, 1881. Two children were born to them, and one of them still lives. A curious development in the suit was the fact that when Egloff was married to Margaret Graff he was already married, and had abandoned his wife in illinois. His reason for leaving her, he stated, was because he heard that she had a husband living who was anaious that they should be reunited. He was unaware, he said, when he married the second time that Margaret had a husband still living.

other member of her sex in the south. Upon being introduced to the passengers of distincremark that at once chained to her the atten-

I used to get up on the wagon and drive into town, where I sold the wood; and with the proceeds, together with what the doctor made on the farm, we were enabled to live and keep out of debt. We have always been able to do this. When in Washington we lived within our means, and came home after congress had adjourned with a little money saved up. I have heard some The Macon Telegramh and Messenger of the

The Macon Telegraph and Messenger of the 19th contained the following telegram, sent from Atlanta by the associated press SMALL POX AT CARTERSVILLE .- Atlanta, Februa ry 18—A negro tramp named Graves, from Oxford Alabama, has been taken with a disease in Carters ville which proves to be small-pox.

"Mrs. Felton," Fasked, "who do you think that the organized demacracy will nominate for governor?" Atlanta is always in advance. She has the first case of small-pox, and is proud of it, because it came by a negro tramp from Alabama.

Taken together, as these paragraphs are here, they could do Atlanta no injury. The mistake which the Telegraph has made in crediting us with a case of small-pox is evicrediting us with a case of small-pox is evident. Cartersville is fifty miles from Atlanta and it is at that place, and not in Atlanta, that the negro tramp is wrestling with small-

We have endeavored to protect our selves, and are prepared to take care of any unfortunates who may be attacked. We guard incoming trains and have a competent corps of physicians, and every rumored case has been looked into immediately. I have put myself to a great deal of trouble to be thoroughly and fully informed in regard to and not be ashamed of it. I think that Mr. Hill made a great mistake, and can't believe that he was at all himself when he made this charge. He was certainly troubled about something, or he would never have said this without having the proof; and I believe that, if he had thought a moment, he never would have said it. I regret this controversy for two reasons: One of them is that hereafter Mr. Hill and my husband can never less warm friends as they have been. They

THE CHESTER CASUALTY.

CHESTER, Pa., February 20.—Two more of the victims of the explosion at Jackson's pyrotechnic works died last night, William H. Franklin, a member of the Franklin fire insurance company, and Robert Taylor, a young colored man. Franklin leaves a young wife. The deaths from this explosion now aggregate 17.

The coroner's jury and experts to-day visited the scene of the recent fatal explosion. The inquest was resumed. Samuel Kitts and Captain Morley, officers at the military academy, testified that the government furnished the academy with a large lot of brass cartiedges, three hundred of which were at the academy when that institution was burned, but which were not to be found afterwards. The brass shells tound near the siddle teacher of washouts. A special from 8t. Charles says that three temporary spans and two wooden piers supporting the siddle teacher of the union depot last night were obliged to lay over all night at Carondalet and are still there. The river has risen about ten feet since yesterday. The rise was so unexpected that considerable freight lying on the levee near the old Short-line was swept away. All other property has been moved further up the bank or taken away altogether to-day, so that no further damage can be done. The east-bound train on the Missouri Pacific railroad were the only trains which left the union depot last night were obliged to lay over all night this morning. At t cave Cliff on the Iron Mountain road there is an extensive washout, and passenger trains which left the union depot last night were obliged to lay over all night the Carondalet and are still there. NEW YORK, February 20-The Post's cotton market says: "Future deliveries opened 2@3 100 lower and lost other 3@5-100 and then advanced 7-100, former engagements being liquidated. There is not much life on the market and operators work prices up and down to make a few points Receipts are small and are likely to remain small. Quiet and feverish markets are likely to prevail for the present, as manipulations will mainly decide the future range of prices."

OFFICE OF GEORGE W. SCOTT & CO., ATLANTA. After having our special brand of

COTTON BUTTER OIL

Tested by several bundred of the most pruden and careful housekeepers in Georgia, who unsai mously pronounce it

EQUAL, IF NOT SUPERIOR TO LARD,

WE NOW OFFER IT TO DEALERS on terms that will enable them to supply their cus-tomers at prices below the cost of lard. It costs less per pound, and two pounds of it are equal to three pounds offard. It is a

REFINED COTTON SEED OIL Made by the Hope Oil Mills of Memphis, Tean. The high character of the gentlemen controling these mills is a guarantee that none but the purest and sweetest oils made from selected seed will be used for this purpose. It is cleaner, better and cheaper than lard for combread, biscults and all frying purposes. It is as good as butter for cases and pastry. It is as WHOLESOME AND DELICATE AS OLIVE OIL It does not become Stale or Rancid as soon as either butter or lard. It is a Home Product, and every citizen of the Cotton States should be interested in its introduction into general use, thereby enhancing the value of the two hundred million bushels of cotton seed annually taken from our crop.

WE MAKE NO AGENTS!

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT. On receipt of One Dollar we will send to dealers a sample can, express paid, with directions for use, circulars, etc.

A SEVERE BRUISE. - Sunday afternoon crowd of colored people assembled around a pool near the Boulevard to see a new convert to the church baptised. One of the women grew happy and shouted. While thus giving vent to her feelings she made a mistep and fell down a bank, striking her head against a rock and sustaining a severe injury.

THE NEW RAILROAD.-We learn that it is The New Kallroad.—We learn that it is contemplated to hold a public meeting at Panola factory, in DeKalb county, in the interest of the proposed railroad from Atlanta to Panola factory via Decatur. Hon. W. H. Hulsey has been invited to deliver an address upon that occasion. Much interest is being manifested in the matter.

Before the Commissioner.—Sam Green, of Forsyth county, was before United States Commissioner W. B. Smith yesterday for preliminary trial on a charge of conspiracy. He was put under bond for his appearance.

L. S. Anderson, of Douglas county, was before Commissioner Smith on a charge of illicit distilling. He was sent to jail in default of a bond of four hundred dollars.

CITY COURT.—The city court met yesterday at the usual hour, his honor Richard H. Clark, judge, presiding. The case of James P. Harrison & Co. vs. the Estey organ company, was taken up for trial. This was a case in which the Estey organ company gave Harrison & Co. a check on the Citizens' bank on the day before the failure of that institution. The check was not presented until the next day, or the day upon which the bank failed. Of course it was not paid. Messrs. Harrison sued the Estey organ company for the amount of the check, $230.52, and interest. The jury retarned a verdict for Harrison & Co.

The case of John Walface vs. Henry Lewis was taken up for trial. In this case the plaintiff was injured by the explosion of a beiler at Lewis's factory and sued for damages. The case was not concluded.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

A cold or sore throat may not seen to amount to much, and if promptly attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often followed by communition or diphtheria. No medicine has ever been discovered which acts so quickly and surely in such cases as FERRY DAVIS PAIN and surely in such case, as PERRY DAVIS' PAIN aved thousands of fives. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not an experiment.
A few extracts from voluntary testimonials read as follows:

PAIN KILLER has been my household remody for colds for the past twenty-even years, and have heaver known it to first in offering a circ.—
L. S. Chochina, Williamsville, N. Y.
For thirty years I have used Pain Killer, and found it a heaver-faillier remody for colds and sore threat.—Barron Senatan.

If they had recovered from a very severe cold, which I have had for same time. I could also a relief until I tried your Park Killing, with he relieved ne immediately. I will never again be without it.—C.O. Force, Lowing, Ca.

Have need Park Killing in my family for forty sears, and have never known it to full—Hanson Elives waynessore, Ca.

I becan using Park Killing in my family twenty—five years ago and have used they relied to call a physician, and tried your Fails. So many children have died here, I was fried to call a physician, and tried your Fails. So many children have died here, I was fried to call a physician, and tried your Fails. So many children have died here, I was fried to call a physician, and tried your Fails.

Druggli, Onede, N. Y. For Chills and Fever, PAIN KILLER has no equal. It cures when everything else fails.

Delays are often dengerous. A bottle of PAIN KILLER in the house is a safeguard that no ally should be without. All druggists sell it at 25c., 50c., and $100 per bottle.

Without any attempts at fine oratory, the speaker delivered an address which went direct to the hearts of his audience and awakened their sympathies. His utterances were greeted with frequent bursts of applause, and it is doubtful if an audience ever assem-bled which was in more thorough sym-pathy with the speaker than the audience which listened to Father Sheehy last night In a clear, concise manner he reviewed the objections to the methods of the law courts which are tried the cases between the landrds and tenants in Ireland. He said that formerly the tenant had only the landlord to fight, whereas under the existing laws he is bled by the law, court and lawyer. He com pared the arbitration laws of this country with the laws of Ireland, and made a showing which left the Irish tenant in the attitude of a which lett the firsh tenant in the attitude of a very unjustly used man. He attacked the fairness of the trials and said that the justices did, not once in a period of a hundred years had they held the scales of justice fairly between man and man. He referred to the old Grecian law which punished with death, the justice who deviated in the slightest degree from the path of justice, and said that gree from the path of justice, and said that were it the case in Ireland as in old Greece, that the justice seats were covered with the kins of the unjust judges, that not only would the justice 'seats be covered, but every green

He spoke of the great depreciation of prices of soil products in Ireland. He mentioned the depreciation of the price of beef within the past two years from 18 pence per pound to 10 pence, and said that the favor which American beef has met with would reduce it still further.

He spoke of the standing army of fifty thousand men who keep Ireland subjugated. He said that if Ireland had thirty thousand men he would not be upon the stage, but would, if nothing else, be a chaplain in the army. He said that the land league did not demand the lands free, but in the impoverished condition of the people demanded the lands and the right to make a living and a reasonable time in which to pay for them.
